

Forensic Psychiatry: Facts and Fiction

Oral presentation

27th august 2018

Marlinde van Veenendaal
Annemiek Schäfer

Clinical nurse specialist, nurse practitioner in mental health, MSc

Disclosure presenter

X	No (potential) conflict of interests
X	1. Relations that could be relevant for the meeting	<company names>
X	2. Sponsorship or research funds	<company names>
X	3. Payment or other (financial) remuneration	<company names>
X	4. Shareholder	<company names>
X	5. Other relation	<company names>

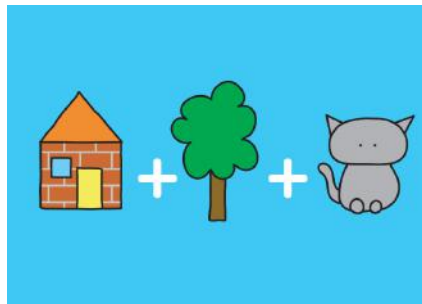

Forensic treatment

reducing the psychiatric symptoms

reducing the recurrence of offenses

➔ Combinations of security and treatment

Diagnostics and risk assessment

Diagnostics:

symptomatology
behavioural characteristics offense-related behaviour

Risk:

static and dynamic risk factors
PCL-R & HCR-20

Protective:

SAPROF

Care program

Basic health care program
Forensic addiction treatment
Personality disorders
Long-term forensic psychiatric care
Psychotic disorder
Sexually transgressive behaviour

Specific description problem, guidelines with regard to diagnostics, risk assessment, treatment and rehabilitation

Basic care program

What works principles -> risk factors to influence

RNR

Risk

Needs

Responsiveness

Good lives model -> protective factors
Offence analysis and offence scenario

Detention under hospital orders

- Unique in the world
- Court can impose detention under hospital orders
- People declared partially or fully unaccountable
 - Psychiatric problems
 - Serious offences committed
 - Sentence at least four years
 - Chance of recidivism
- After completing custodial sentence, treatment in a forensic psychiatric centre

Forensic institutions

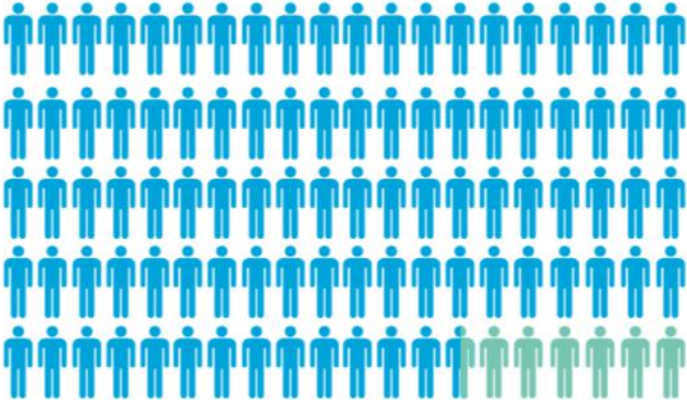

1. Forensic psychiatric clinic (FPC): state hospital
2. Forensic psychiatric departments (PFK): special department in general MH
3. Forensic psychiatric wards (FPA): specialized wards in general MH
4. Forensic outpatient care

Security level

Facts and figures in the Netherlands

1.374

● Men

● Women

Leave

marlinde.van.veenendaal@arkin.nl

a.schafer@ggz-nhn.nl